FEW Presents Virtual Leadership Summit II

New Training Helps Members ‘Soar to New Heights’ August 9-13

PRINCETON JUNCTION, N.J. —May 20, 2021— Federally Employed Women announced today its new premier training event, Virtual Leadership Summit II, on August 9-13 to help its members advance their careers.

The week-long, online training event will offer more than 100 specialized courses on a variety of topics, including EEO, human resources, information technology, project management, as well as management and leadership. All courses align with the Office of Personnel Management (OPM) Executive Core Competencies (i.e. leading people, leading change, business acumen, result driven and building coalitions). FEW’s virtual platform also will have interactive exhibition features and plenty of opportunities for networking. Registration is open.

“It’s always the right time to improve yourself and soar to new heights,” said FEW National President Karen M. Rainey. “Our online event, Virtual Leadership Summit II, will help attendees develop their skills in countless ways without the expense of lodging and travel. Now is the time to rise and create new opportunities for a richer life—from the comfort of your home.”

The Virtual Leadership Summit II offers a range of invaluable workshops, including:

- Workplace Civility
- The Human Dimension of Leadership

- Critical Thinking: A Focused Path to Problem Solving
- Introduction to Project Management Basics
- Building Your Beach – Keys to Building a Leadership Pipeline
